Farmers Expect To Win Oklahoma

Cannot Fail at Primaries.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 10.—The Farmer-Labor Reconstruction League in Oklahoma, now intensely active in the political fight, is much encouraged by the defeat of Senator McCumber in the North Dakota primaries. The league is also elated over the addition to its force of politically powerful men who have been "regular" Democrats, such as Tom Latham, a pioneer Democratic leader of Texas county; former Representative John Whynnie of Carter County; C. Kendall of Okmulgee; Senator Clark Nicholas of Eufaula and Robert W. Dick of this city, formerly warden of the Oklahoma penitentiary.

These influential recruits and other regular Democrats not affiliated directly with the Farmer-Labor Reconstruction League insist that J. C. Walton, mayor of Oklahoma City, the Democratic candidate for governor, whom the league has endorsed, is the only safe candidate for the first office who can win at the primaries Aug. 8, and at the general election. They declare that Robert H. Wilson, state superintendent of public institution, cannot get more than half the league vote and that he will vote for Mayor Walton or nobody.

The league and its new allies also claim that the third Democratic candidate for governor, Judge Thomas H. Owen, cannot hold the farmer and labor votes because he is a banker and classed as a bankers' candidate. People generally have not been so much interested in a political campaign for years, but never have so many voters been undisciplined at this stage.

Observant politicians believe that from 50,000 to 75,000 voters who may be opposed to Mayor Walton have not made up their minds as between Judge Owen and Superintendent Wilson.

Seymour Price, for thirty years a Republican leader and formerly Register of the United States Land Office in this city, asserts that, like himself "15,000 good Republicans" are supporting Mayor Walton. These were the followers of the late Jake L. Hamon whom John Fields, Republican candidate for governor, strongly opposed for Republican nat-

TRI-CITY GOLF ASSOCIATION TO MEET JULY 15

The second meet of the Tri-City Golf Association will be held in Winston-Salem, N. C., on July 15, the entire personnel of the Danville Golf Club having been invited to that city for the event. Not many weeks ago the first golf tournament held by the association was held and it proved to be a highly interesting engagement of the golf players of Danville, Greensboro and Winston.

Danville will send a team of twelve players to compete for the cup and doubtless several other players will go for friendly games with the Winston people. The Danville team will be picked sheerly on merit. Recently a golf ladder has been installed in the golf club and the individual performance of each player is there recorded. The first twelve men on the ladder will represent the Danville club instead of a tournament committee making selection of the personnel. This innovation is greatly stimulating the Danville players and the standing on the ladder is said to be constantly shifting.

—Mrs. L. K. Lundie and daughter, Mrs. Kate Taylor, are at Hotel Monks, Danville, Va., on the hotel term.

Patterson's Drug Store Has Leased Corner Stand

Patterson's Drug Co. has leased the corner store of the new Masonic building and expects to install one of the finest drug stores in the South. Brown's Jewelry store has leased the center store on Main street and Rich-Moore, clothing, has leased the third store room. Announcement has not been made as to the leasing of the store rooms on Patton street.

The lower floor of the Masonic Temple will be completed by October 15, it was announced last night. All three of the above mentioned concerns expect to occupy their new quarters about that date.

The fixtures and equipment of the new store room of Patterson's Drug Store will be of the very best. The floors of the lobby and the corridors. The prescription department will be placed on a mezzanine floor. The rest of the room will be given over to the display of stock.

All three store rooms will have two entrances, one on Main street and the other from the lobby of the building, the entrance to which will be on Union street. The stores will also have display windows in the lobby as well as on Main street.

Both Brown's and Rich-Moore will have a mezzanine floor in their quarters in the former place. This will be used for a workshop. Rich-Moore may use this extra space for display or for an office.

Special attention has been paid to convenience in all of the store rooms. In the case of Patterson's there will be a lift to carry all goods from the basement to the store room. At the soda fountain there will be a dumb-waiter to bring supplies from the basement to the workers behind the counter.

While no announcement has been made as to the leasing of the rooms on Union street it is understood that these have been leased and will be occupied in October.

The building committee of the Masonic Temple hope to have the entire building finished by December 1.

About nine per cent of the office space has been rented and more is being disposed of every day.

COW VICTIM OF INHUMAN ACT

An extraordinary inhuman act was committed yesterday, a valuable Holstein cow belonging to G. W. Frix, of North Danville being the victim. Some person whose identity has not been definitely learned mutilated the udder of the Holstein virtually destroying its usefulness as a milk giver. The cow valued at $125 had been yielding six gallons of fine milk every day. The act was committed in a field and the severed part was impaled upon a nail. The cow was found in great agony from the inhuman cruelty of a person whose identity Mr. Frix was not despaired of proving.

GREINA TO HAVE REDRYING PLANT

GREINA, July 8.—A redrying plant now owned by individuals for redrying tobacco has been promised Greina and a large and suitable lot directly on the railroad has practically been secured upon which the plant is to be erected. This lot is very near the tobacco warehouses, and the direct loading and unloading from the railroad cars will save much time and expense in handling tobacco.

Greina has grown very rapidly for the past few years and is now a very prosperous little town. With the erection of the redrying plant, the State highway, the assurance of an immediate improved county road to be built from Greina to the Franklin county line near Penhook, with the present improved road leading to Long Island in Campbell county, should make Greina one of the leading towns in this part of Virginia. Three new dwellings are now being erected and will be completed in the near future. Between $50,000 and $100,000 has been spent recently on residences. Additional construction work will be added within the next few weeks. The Greina High school will be supplied with fourteen teachers next session. Work will soon begin on the additional school building.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lane, of Lynchburg are guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hodges. Messrs. Ruby and Reba Bishop, of Thomasville, N. C., are spending their vacation in Greina with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bishop. Mrs. Garnett Haley, of Danville, is in Greina visiting home folks. Rev. G. R. Haley, who has been confined to his bed for several weeks continues very ill. Mrs. Louise Lecher, of Clinton Forge, Va., was the recent guest of Mrs. D. E. Webb.

SOUTH BOSTON NEWS

SOUTH BOSTON, Va., July 8.—The fourth of July passed very quietly here, no demonstration of any kind taking place. Large crowds of country people passed through and were joined by many town people on their way to Halifax where a big celebration had been arranged for the crowd met with disappointment, the day being so hot and the weather finally turned into a downpour of rain which drove the crowds away and scarcely any of the program was carried out. A Bible class rally day will be observed on Sunday morning at the South Boston Baptist church. A line of march will be formed at the Garland Hotel by the Men's Bible class, and will march down Main street to the Baptist church. Other local churches will also observe the day and join in the service at the Baptist church. Judge Frank P. Christian of Lynchburg, Va., will address the meeting and a grand musical program has been arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hupp announced the birth of their first child, a daughter, to Lawrence Rich, of Danville, on Sunday morning. The child is a girl, named Mary, and weighs 10 pounds. The birth took place at the home of Mrs. Hupp, 101 E. Main street. The father is a well-known contractor and the mother is a native of the South. The child is expected to be a healthy and happy one.

NEW CHILD LABOR LAW WILL FORCE HARDSHIPS UPON THE NEEDY

"Say, Mister, if that's true they've ruined everything for me and my mother!" So said a newsboy who was told yesterday that it was against the law for him to sell papers any more.

"I don't know how old I am, but I'm old 'nuff to sell papers, an' I make six bits every day sellin' th' Bee, an' I g'ives most of what I make to mother, an' she needs it. My father's dead. My mother makes a few dollars a week takin' in washin' and she needs what I g'ives her. I just don't think it's fair, Mister."

"I heard my mother say, Mister, that a boy what don't work 'sure to get into meanness. She said she'd heard about this law 'bout younguns not workin', but she told me to work as long as they'd let me. She said it would keep me out in the open an' I'd get plenty uv 'excise a-runnin' round on the streets. And, Mister, I don't see no sense in it at all."

"And my mother says it ain't like workin' in the mill all day long where the work's hard and the mills hot, but newsboy work ain't goin' to hurt no one at all."

"Mister, I need that money that I makes sellin' papers and I don't know what I'm goin' to do now. Ain't there some way's you can fix it so's I can go on an' sell papers like I've been doin'?"

Dr. Shelburne Named Trustee To Be Renominated At August Primary

The trustees of Averett College held their annual meeting last Tuesday. President F. W. Boatwright, of the University of Richmond, and Dr. Powhatan W. James, pastor of the First Baptist church, Lynchburg were out-of-town members present.

Reports were made by W. E. Gardner, chairman of the executive committee, Geo. A. Lea, president of the board of trustees, and J. P. Craft, president of the college. President Craft gave dinner for the board at one o'clock.

The year has been remarkable for the college during an adverse financial season generally in that there has been no deficit, as the audit of the expert accountant showed. The work of the building committee was approved altogether. It has been decided to add a perfect filtration system to the standard swimming pool now being constructed. The pool will measure 20 by 60 feet and will be tile-lined.

Dr. James M. Shelburne, pastor of the First Baptist church, was elected a trustee.

The management of the college is happy to announce that the teacher of modern languages for the approaching session will be Miss Orta Lee Price, of Oklahoma. Miss Price seems to be a remarkable woman. Dr. Robert J. Kellogg, of the Oklahoma Baptist University, of which Miss Price is a graduate, states that she made the highest record ever made at that university. Dean Jent wrote that she is considered a genius in the languages, and states that he regards her as by all odds the strongest woman the university has ever graduated. Her Alma Mater would have used Miss Price on their faculty, except for a rearrangement that was made.

It will be of interest to the people of this section to know that one of the seven members of the Virginia Normal school board recently appointed by Governor Trinkle, is a member of the Averett College faculty. Miss Frances Shumate, of Mr. T. Milledge Galphin and Miss Margaret Galphin, brother and sister of Mrs. Craft, have been recent visitors at Averett. Mr. Galphin is a graduate of Mercer University and of the University of Wisconsin. He has more recently been studying law in Louisville, Ky., and passed through Danville going to Columbia University to enjoy the additional advantages of a summer course there.

STILLS RAIDED BY W. T. SHELTON

W. T. Shelton, state prohibition agent, announced last night that July 7th and 8th were the dates for him. O. Smith, J. S. Hask and L. Lumpkin.

CAPT. W. W. BRIGGS KILLED IN WRECK

According to a telegram received here yesterday, Capt. W. W. Briggs, of the 1st Cavalry, was killed in a wreck on the night of July 7th. The wreck occurred on the Virginia Railway near the town of Danville. Capt. Briggs was traveling with his family at the time of the accident. The train was derailed and the locomotive and several passenger cars were overturned. Capt. Briggs was killed instantly. His wife and two children were injured but are expected to recover. The cause of the wreck is being investigated by the railroad authorities.

Steady Profit All Year Round Is Promised

(Special From Tobacco Growers' News Bureau)

WILSON, N. C., July 8.—Co-operative marketing guarantees you absolute betterment in price and the certainty of a steady profit year after year after year, George A. Norwood, president of the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, told hundreds of farmers at a great mass-meeting today when the world's largest co-operative marketing association entered the world's biggest tobacco market at Wilson.

A great audience of farmers, bankers, merchants and warehousemen filled the body of the opera house and overflowed into the aisle and galleries to hear President Norwood, Oliver J. Sands, general manager, Richard R. Patterson, leaf manager, and John M. Farra, of the Kentucky burley growers' pool, urge co-operative marketing today at Wilson.

Oliver J. Sands, executive manager of the association, was greeted with loud applause when he announced that a Wilson banker had today offered to loan the association up to his limit. "Don't you think that a tobacco corporation would have taken more than thirty minutes to approve their loan of thirty million dollars to the association if they hadn't looked into it and were satisfied," said Sands, who told of other loans for five million dollars offered the association by New York banks and amounts now running in to the millions, which the banks of the Carolinas and Virginia are eagerly offering in increasing numbers to the 75,000 organized growers.

Emphasizing the support which the big tobacco co-operative has received from the nation's laws, state laws, the war finance corporation and from congress, Mr. Sands outlined the method by which American bankers have prevented a financial disaster by co-operation in the form of the federal reserve bank and urged upon tobacco farmers the necessity to protect themselves by similar co-operation in marketing their products.

Exploding the rumor that extravagant salaries are paid the officials of the tobacco growers' association, Mr. Sands said, "I've done my work for the association without compensation for I did not want pay or work in so great a cause, but we have gotten the leading tobacco men whom we have to pull away from the American, the Export and the Universal. You've been paying them before to work for the big companies, you pay them now to work for you." R. R. Patterson, general manager of the leaf department of the tobacco growers' association, said that instead of being forced to push their tobacco on the market as under the auction system, the association would avoid glut and accomplish the orderly marketing of their tobacco, so that farmers could sell and receive their cash, and return home on the same day.

A storm of applause greeted Mr. Patterson, who was formerly manager of the leaf department of the American Tobacco Company when he told the tobacco growers, "We are going to work just as hard for you as we ever worked for any tobacco company in the world."

George A. Norwood, president of the association, assured the farmers that their directors had already completed the necessary arrangements as to handling the tobacco by a quantity quality grower such as time for should not be a time for organization by the farmer to get at least cost of production, said O. P. Dickinson of Wilson, in introducing John M. Farra, representative of the Kentucky burley pool, who said to be a true dirt farmer. "Prices of 12 cents per pound for burley tobacco when its production cost 29 cents brought about the successful movement for co-operative marketing in Kentucky," said Mr. Farra, who stated that he received 15 cents per pound for his tobacco last year and for tobacco grown by the same man on the same acreage but sold this year through the pool he received 30 cents per pound already with a third payment still to come on his share of the fifty million pounds now being held by the Kentucky burley growers' association. Today's meeting at Wilson which was notable for enthusiasm and good feeling, marks a successful climax in the campaign which has brought thousands of growers from eastern North Carolina into the marketing association. A building site has been secured for the large warehouse which will be built by the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association in Wilson in time to market this year's crop. The series of meetings at which John Bell and Ruben of the Kentucky burley pool addressed the growers of Wilson county at Black Creek, Lucerna, Rockbridge, New-hope, Elm City, Wilbanks, Stantonburg and Saratoga resulted in considerably increased membership.

Expanding the rumor that extravagant salaries are paid the officials of the tobacco growers' association, Mr. Sands said, "I've done my work for the association without compensation for I did not want pay or work in so great a cause, but we have gotten the leading tobacco men whom we have to pull away from the American, the Export and the Universal. You've been paying them before to work for the big companies, you pay them now to work for you." R. R. Patterson, general manager of the leaf department of the tobacco growers' association, said that instead of being forced to push their tobacco on the market as under the auction system, the association would avoid glut and accomplish the orderly marketing of their tobacco, so that farmers could sell and receive their cash, and return home on the same day.

Swanson Certain To Be Renominated At August Primary

RICHMOND, Va., July 8.—Contrary to all reports and expectations the Senator on primary, which will be held three weeks from next Tuesday is slow, dull and devoid of interest. There have been no great meetings, there have been no rallies no barbecues, nothing to arouse the voters. Senator Swanson, aside from appearing before a gathering of his friends here or a conference has not made a speech. He has remained at Washington and has been conducting his campaign in part from that city, and in part from the other end of the line. He has been in many of the counties and he writes here that things are moving along to his entire satisfaction. His friends here and in all parts of the State are of the same opinion and they are even more sanguine than is Senator Swanson. Reports are coming here daily from every part of Virginia—officers, lawyers, business men and others who have to come from time to time. They all bring the same report as to condition. Yesterday three men were here at one and the same time—one from Highland county, one from Roanoke City and one from Charlotte. They are all supporters of Senator Swanson, and they did not hesitate to say so. Each of these declared that the contest was quiet, but that it showed a few indications of awakening in the next few days, but that four-fifths or more of the voters are for Senator Swanson.

There is one thing to be feared by the candidates in the contest. It may be that the vote going to the polls will be so pitifully small that the real sentiments of the people will not be reflected in the total vote. Women in a few of the cities are understood to be actively at work for the opponent of Senator Swanson, but the men and many of the women are standing behind the Senator and will vote for him.

Lever Hooker, in charge of the State campaign headquarters of Senator Swanson, in a statement made a few days ago raised his own estimate of the majority that Senator Swanson will receive. The conservative guess of the majority is still 40,000, the result depending on the size of the vote. If the total vote reaches 225,000 the majority, according to claims, will be 60,000.

FIND CHARTBOOK COLUMBUS USED

BERLIN, July 8.—The astronomical chart-book which helped Columbus discover America, is now in the possession of Professor Archenhold, head of the Tietz observatory here.

This book contains tables of the planets' eclipses and other astronomical figures, without which Columbus never could have discovered America.

It is related that when his sailors became mutinous he told them to wait until the next day when there would be an eclipse of the sun. He knew this from his tables, but for the crew this bit of information appeared to be a miracle. Finding that his prediction came true the sailors were quiet and remained faithful to him until they reached the promised land.

Archenhold has been offered thousands of dollars for his book, but declines to part with it.

A BUSINESS COUPE FOR BUSINESS MEN

This car represents a new and important achievement in commercial transportation.

For the first time in motor car history, business men are enabled to buy a closed car, the body of which is built throughout of steel.

The advantages of this all-steel construction—reserved until now to open cars—are particularly marked in a coupe built to weather the wear and tear of hard commercial usage.

Immediately you will be impressed with the beauty and lightness of this coupe. Time will convince you of its unusual stamina. The doors snap neatly shut. Body squeaks are eliminated. Dodge Brothers enamel is baked on the surface of the steel—a permanent lustrous finish, impervious to wear.

The interior is roomy and thoughtfully equipped with every appointment necessary to the owner's comfort and all-weather protection.

Business houses that equip their salesmen with motor cars have been quick to recognize in this coupe a very unusual investment.

War Vet Bureau Head Schedule For Dismissal

Colonel C. R. Forbes Likely to Go As Result of General Complaint from Service Men All Over Country.

By George H. Manning.
Washington Correspondent of Danville Bee.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—Colonel C. R. Forbes, head of the war veterans bureau, is scheduled for dismissal, it appears, in response to the general complaint from war veterans all over the country that their needs are not being met.

Such vigorous complaint about the inefficiency of the veterans bureau has been made to President Harding by the American Legion and members of Congress that the administration, facing an election in November, must take action to still the clamor and Colonel Forbes will likely be the "sacrifice."

About three weeks ago the American Legion Weekly, the official organ of the Legion, began a campaign against the veterans bureau. The third editorial in the series, appearing in the current issue, called for changes in the bureau's policy towards the World War veterans now in need of medical treatment, shutting out of patients with temporary mental derangements in institutions where conditions are such as to bring on permanent insanity, inexcusable delay of the hospitalization program for which $25,000,000 was appropriated by Congress, and several other abuses.

The Legion's drive has been directed against both Colonel Forbes and Dr. General Sawyer, chairman of the Federal board of hospitalization. President Harding brought Dr. Sawyer, who has been his personal physician in Marion, Ohio, to Washington, as soon as he was into the White House and gave him the rank of Brigadier General, although he had never before seen army service. He has continued as the President's personal physician, his advisor in warfare work and chairman of the Federal board of hospitalization. It is very unlikely that President Harding will oust General Sawyer, but will probably oust Colonel Forbes in an attempt to hush the clamor against both officials.

President Harding likes Colonel Forbes personally, and has given him the rank of Brigadier General, although he has never before seen army service. He has continued as the President's personal physician, his advisor in warfare work and chairman of the Federal board of hospitalization. It is very unlikely that President Harding will oust General Sawyer, but will probably oust Colonel Forbes in an attempt to hush the clamor against both officials.

There has been much ugly gossip going the rounds of Washington for several months to the effect that the veterans bureau is in a state of utter disorganization from the effects of too much "bureaucracy and red tape" and the employees. Too much drinking, too many holidays and too little attention to business on the part of several high officials of the bureau has demoralized the morale of the clerks, it is said.

The veterans who, because of failure to get satisfactory treatment by correspondence with the bureau, have come to Washington to obtain justice have found it impossible to get face to face with anybody in authority at the bureau, but have been forced to deal with treatables, they complain, and after another series of failures to get their due have returned home in disgust. These incidents have been reported to the American Legion and have brought about the attack on the bureau which is now making on the veterans bureau each week through the Legion Weekly.

This week's issue recalls how Napoleon Bonaparte, reflecting "with tender sympathy" on the plight of the old soldier, decreed that he should be honored as a hero for aims on the public highways of France. Continuing, the Legion Weekly editorial says:

"If we recall Bonaparte's benevolence, what is our attitude toward a federal system which has sent thousands upon thousands of men to institutions which received $2 a day to care for ex-service patients and spent only 70 cents to institutions so overcrowded that men were bedded on the floors? To institutions so undermanned that there was only one doctor to 320 seriously afflicted patients? To institutions prayed upon by vendors of liquor and drugs and worse? To institutions more likely to produce insanity than to cure it?"

"The latest figures of the veterans' bureau give 28,535 men in hospitals suffering afflictions resulting from their war service," the Weekly states. "Of these, 9,249 are not in hospitals owned or leased by the government. They are bound out to private and public institutions at so much per head, helpless victims of the pernicious 'contract' system, always abhorrent, although once defensible on the grounds of extenuating emergency. That time is now gone, and the system stands universally condemned and inexcusable on any ground."

Not the maximum of service, but the minimum of expense is the ideal in these contract hospitals, the article continues, remarking that they try to save money and are successful in doing so. Particularly distressing is the treatment given psychopathic cases, numbering 9,158, according to the paper. Of these 4,569 are not in government owned or managed hospitals, but are contracted for on a profitable commercial basis by public and private institutions.

Triple Love Suit To Be Aired In U. S.

PARIS, July 9.—The International matrimonial triangle of Anatase von Siatky apparently will be carried into the American courts.

With the "fury of a woman scorned," the young and beautiful Mme. Linhoff von Siatky intends to sue for America about July 15, to press her claim as the wife of the young Polish chemist. Efforts of the present Mrs. Von Siatky, who was Mrs. Marion Ream Stephens, an American heiress until her marriage in New York last winter, to effect a settlement with her rival, out of court, appear to have failed.

Two Men Killed; One Blown 60 Feet

CHRISTIANSBURG, July 9.—One man was killed instantly, another scalded fatally and a third blown 60 feet when a boiler at Mottram mines exploded as result of a gas leak, turning steam into an old boiler. The dead are Foreman Charlie Bryant and Allen Linkous. O. C. Linkous is the injured man.

Allen Linkous, who was in the ash pit at the time of the explosion, was caught under the debris and while in plain view and calling for help was fatally scalded, escaping steam preventing rescue. O. C. Linkous was blown through the boiler house roof, falling in a stream of water 60 feet distant. His legs were injured, it is believed, he will recover.

Bryant leaves a wife and three children.

Russia Slowly Wrecks Parley At The Hague

Conference Moves in Hopeless Circle and Little Can Be Accomplished Unless Soviets Change Their Attitude.

(By The Associated Press.)
THE HAGUE, July 10.—Russia is ready to grant concessions for six railroad lines and nine million, eight hundred and eighty thousand acres land for agriculture. It was announced by the Russian delegation here today.

THE HAGUE, July 9.—The experts' conference on Russian problems has held on through a great crisis, but is not yet considered out of danger. All the delegates as they sit today in their hotels at Scheveningen are unanimous in this view but their depression, which is very evident, undoubtedly is influenced by the persistent absence of sunshine, the equally persistent North sea winds and intermittent rain.

The danger arises from the attitude of the Russian delegation toward restitution of confiscated property and prominent European property and prominent European property and prominent European property.

The English delegation remains doggedly optimistic. It believes that a suitable compromise will be found on the vital problem of the property of foreigners in Russia. The Italians also are hopeful. The pessimistic groups think that the Russians do not care whether the conference succeeds or collapses, as they will hope to make advantageous separate agreements with different financial groups and for which they constantly clamor and which the conference may bring postpone, even if a general accord is reached.

Such is a brief summary of the situation as the conference is about to start another week of active negotiation.

"Russia's plan for restitution is not restitution at all," said one gloomy delegate today. "The Bolsheviks have no intention to restore property, but plainly indicate that they will distribute concessions, including expropriated property, to the victors."

There are some indications that the Russian leaders are talking for compromise and that the conference is impossible they will in practice consent to arrangements for virtual restoration, without seeming to do so.

Both sides appear to realize that they have been moving in a hopeless circle. In the long run, the English and French are expected to grant information used in their famous questionnaire of 15 months concerning foreign holdings of the Russian debt. The most significant question was the demand for information as to the actual situation of the bond holders, his possessions and real property, and the general financial situation of his family. Another sought to determine how much money had been paid to the bond holders, which the bonds were upon, and whether or not the security for the bonds was being answered truthfully.

The European delegates refused compliance, not only because they considered the question irrelevant, if not impertinent, but also because to answer them would necessitate a stupendous international inquiry, with months of labor and great expense. Some of the questions created considerable alarm, as indicating a desire on the part of the Russian delegation to apply communistic theories in all their dealings in foreign lands. The issues involved are so staggering that the European groups are beginning to realize the difficulties and responsibilities of their task.

"It is not so sensational as Genoa," said one delegation leader to the Associated Press today. "but it is vastly more important to the world's future. The western world must take its stand here on inalienable rights in respect to property; we cannot drift into collectivism, or seem to favor it. If we cannot reach an accord at The Hague, we can certainly prepare a common report to our governments calculated to advance the settlement of the Russian situation."

"Russia must be reopened in the interest of everybody. It may require another conference to clear things up, but we hope to accomplish much here, to build a bridge between Russia and the outside world."

Attack By Priest On Dead Resented

MERIDEN, Conn., July 10.—Recent remarks made by Father John H. Carroll, permanent rector of Holy Trinity, Eastern Catholic Church, in Windsor, in a funeral sermon, Italian residents, who took action at a mass meeting today, addressed an open letter to Father Carroll and to Bishop John J. Nien, calling for a public apology from the priests.

Ralph Fiedrich, an obstreperous while working in a local factory and his funeral was one of the largest the town has ever known. The procession was led by a band and there was a great profusion of flowers. Father Carroll criticized the clergy and the church members for their laxity in church attendance. The sermon was a stinging rebuke to them.

"During your sermon you intimated that the unfortunate death of our deceased Italian was in the nature of a judgment passed by God. It is rather odd way of showing His love to His people by meeting out such a terrible death. You stated that the Italian race has produced as many great men as any other race."

"Your statement that we do not obey the laws laid down by the Pope is a further insult to the race that has produced practically all the Popes. Despite the ignorance of the Italian people, they know that you left the altar without giving the services."

Father Carroll says he took advantage of the opportunity he believed would come to him to speak some plain truths to many of the Italian residents.

BOY IS BURNED TO DEATH, PINNED TO WALL BY AUTO

PORTSMOUTH, July 9.—Jackie Pitkin, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pitkin, 6115 10th road and Channing Avenue, Cradock, was burned to death at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon while playing in an automobile in the garage back of his home.

It is believed that he and others were playing with matches. The upholstery of the car ignited, enveloping the boy in flames. In an attempt to get out of the car, he was caught between the automobile and the wall of the garage, where he remained until neighbors arrived. P. F. Ives, a neighbor, played a hose on the child as he was held helpless between the car and the side of the garage, but could not rescue the child. Firemen used chemicals and put out the blaze, but the boy lived only a few minutes.

Mrs. Pitkin, the boy's mother, suffering severely from shock. She returned home only a week before from the hospital where she had an operation, and the accident affected her deeply.

The body of the child was removed by Mr. Ives and J. A. Thomas. No funeral arrangements have been made and will be announced later.

The father of the boy is employed by the Cumberland Farm Dairy.

RESTRAINED FROM ENFORCING JITNEY LAW CLAUSES

RICHMOND, July 8.—Judge Sims of the Supreme Court of Appeals has issued an injunction restraining the city of Richmond from enforcing the provisions of the jitney ordinance recently approved by the mayor. The ordinance provides for routes, fares, hours, demands very high bonds and has resulted in the elimination of 75 per cent of the jitneys heretofore in operation. Enforcement of the ordinance will be held in abeyance until the matter can be reviewed by the Supreme Court at the September term. Counsel for the jitneys held that the regulation is unconstitutional.

SOUTHERN RAIL OFFICIAL SHOOT AT A STRIKER

ATLANTA, July 8.—W. W. Waite, superintendent of terminals for the Southern railway here, was arrested today charged with shooting at one striking shopman and pointing a pistol at another. He was released in bonds totalling $500.

Waite claimed he fired only after one of the men had thrown an axe handle and struck him on the arm and another had climbed on the bumper of his automobile when he refused to stop at the demand of strike sympathizers. No one was struck by the shots. He was leaving the yards at the time in the car, he said.

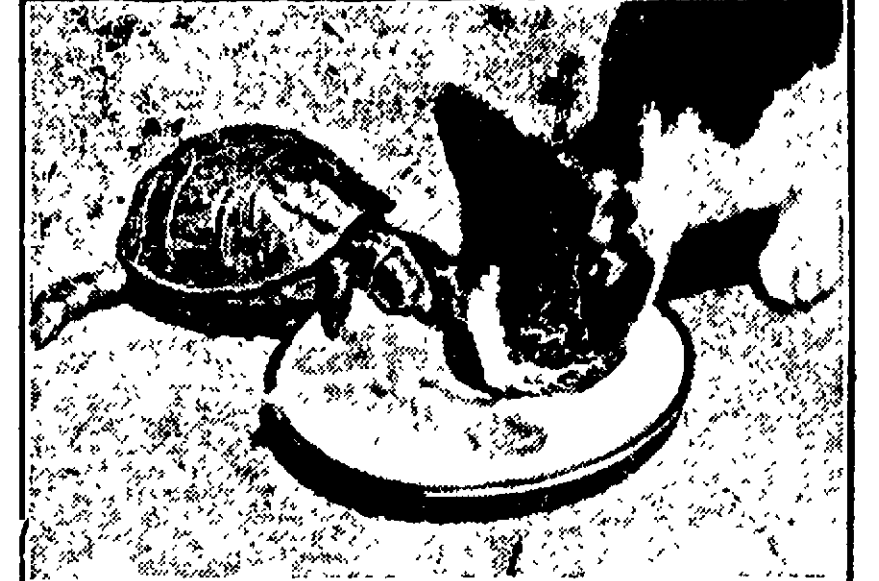

J. B. Nixon swore out the warrant charging the superintendent with shooting at him and William D. Adams took out another warrant charging Waite with pointing a pistol at him. Waite surrendered to justice of the Peace Samuel L. Adams, before whom the warrants were issued and hearing was set for September. Both Nixon and Adams denied that anything had been thrown at Waite.

Strike sympathizers asserted Waite had almost run down a group of them, but railroad officials denied this. No case was made of the alleged throwing of the axe handle.

HARRIS BILL PASSED

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A bill by Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, reducing temporarily the capital requirements of banks for membership in the federal reserve system was passed today by the Senate. The bill would admit to membership in the federal system banks which have sixty per cent of the $25,000 minimum capital requirement providing they set aside 20 per cent of their annual income to add to their initial capital until the minimum is reached.

THE PRESIDENT'S TIMELY WARNING

(New York Journal of Commerce)

Returning to his old home for the first time since his inauguration, President Harding brought his fellow townsmen—and the nation—a timely warning and some very sound advice. Three sentences in his address stand out in particular prominence, and ought to be soberly pondered. They are: "A free American has the right to labor without any others leave," "It will be a sorry day when group domination is reflected in our laws," and "The greatest traitor to his country is he who appeals to prejudice and inflames passion, when sober judgment and honest speech are so necessary to firmly establish tranquility and security."

More timely utterances could not have been made. The truth of the president's words is self-evident, and it is no compliment to the community that it needs to have its attention sharply called to such obvious principles or indeed that danger should exist from sources of this sort. Yet the fact remains that the conditions against which Mr. Harding warns us have risen hydra-headed in our midst. Only a few days ago half a hundred "free Americans" were brutally butchered because they dared exercise their right to labor without any others leave. That was a conspicuous and extreme case and naturally attracted wide-spread attention. Plenty of instances of the same thing, different only in degree, occur without attracting special notice. "Picketing," more often perhaps than not, constitutes an active and aggressive denial of the right to free men to work. Nor is the pressure brought to bear upon workmen to refrain from labor confined to "picketing" in the ordinary sense.

Efforts to enact class legislation have been so frequent of late and success so threatening that the situation constitutes a national menace. Agricultural interests have become politically organized and have already obtained special favors from the public, now press for further aid—and seem to be in a good way to get it. "Veterans" clamor for largesse. Ship owners demand funds, and sundry special interests seem likely to obtain large tariff grants at the expense of the consumer. Labor long satisfied with anti-trust laws when their rigor was directed at capital, insists that the unions be exempt from such legislation or, failing that, that the laws be repealed.

Appeals to prejudice class feeling and passion have likewise been all too plentiful of late. These take many forms and have run about the whole gamut of human frailty. The "foundling fathers" would not doubt rest uneasy in their graves if they knew how their words are used to stir up unthinking impulses in an endeavor to perpetuate a policy of international isolation, to induce us to shrink our duty and trade our own interests. War hatreds are made to play an important part in the tariff campaign. In the same way wage earners have been led into excesses of foolish passion by silly charges against owners or property. They are told that exorbitant profits are being received, and that the same men that industrial depression was deliberately brought on by financiers to break the unions. Meaningless shibboleths and alleged "rights" have been used to arouse mentally undisciplined men to action which can but result in their injury.

All of this is not new to this day and generation, but not for many years if ever have we had so much of it, and it is as true today as always that we cannot prosper as long as these diseases are active in our midst. The president is both right and timely in his warning. Men must be free to work, the common good of all must be our goal, and reason, not passion must guide us to our prosperity and happiness are to be ours.

CHORUS GIRLS OUT OF JOBS

LONDON, July 8.—(By mail to United Press.)—More than a thousand London chorus girls are learning the words of a new song, entitled "We Want a Job."

The withdrawal of seven leading musical comedies within two weeks and the collapse of the touring season has brought an unprecedented crisis into the world of the chorus.

"Things have never been so bad for those who depend on the production of musical shows and revues for their living, a prominent theatre manager declared.

The most distressing feature is that there are but few new musical comedies planning to take the boards before autumn.

The result has been that many of the girls are being forced to leave the stage or taking an enforced but expensive vacation at the seaside, writing entreating letters to managers in the meantime.

Among the withdrawals of musical comedies have been "Cairo," the London version of "Mecca," "Maid and Montmartre," which was forced to close through the illness of its star, Delysia, and the Gaiety show, "His Girl."

Oles Quits Fight for Job

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 7.—"I'm going home to talk it over with my wife. I may let you fight it out your- self."

These were the words of George L. Oles, who tendered his resignation last week as Mayor of Youngstown to City Solicitor Leighninger and William B. Reese when he appeared at the City Hall today. He announced the purpose of demanding that Reese vacate the office in his favor.

The City Solicitor had ruled earlier in the day that Oles was not Mayor, despite the fact that the council had never acted upon his resignation.

Plans To Send Photos By Radio

PARIS, July 8.—What chance would a fleeing criminal have to escape if every town and village in the country could have his photograph the very day of the crime?

That will become a practical possibility within a few months according to Edouard Belin, inventor of facsimile transmission by radio.

M. Belin already has sent photographed manuscripts and signatures from France to America by wireless. This summer he is working in his laboratories at Malmaison on the transmission of portraits. In the fall he will tour the United States to demonstrate to the Department of Justice and to the police of large cities the importance of his invention to the detection of crime.

Concluding his tour at San Diego, Cal., M. Belin will attempt to transmit photographs by radio from the coast to the interior.

"The present method of telegraphing pictures used by some news services, is only a makeshift," said M. Belin. "It consists of sending, on the wire or through the air, code words representing points on a chart. By connecting these points with a pencil line a diagram of the image is conceived. An artist with imagination decorates the diagram until it resembles somewhat what the original must have looked like."

The discoveries I am perfecting involve the actual transmission of an image through the air. Without going into technical details—although I am quite willing to do so—this image reproduces itself at the destination upon positive film or printing on paper.

Yet best results have been obtained with the sending of handwriting. This alone is of tremendous importance to the business world. A man in Paris could endorse a note in Cleveland or Rio de Janeiro or Liverpool simply by going to the telegraph office in Paris and writing his signature. I believe this facility will soon be added to the public telegraph service.

"But a much clearer image is necessary to send a portrait. We are working on that now. By fall I can promise you the success will be perfected and I shall take it at once to the United States."

CAUGHT 31-POUND TROUT IN SARANAC

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., July 8.—(United Press.)—Duncan Hymes of Patterson, N. Y., was fishing in Follensbee pond. He got a strike that nearly wrecked his eight ounce rod. Following an hour's battle he was able to bring his catch to the side of the pond. All he had was a lake trout that weighed 31 pounds, measured 45 inches in length and was 26 inches in girth. It was the largest lake trout caught in the Adirondacks since the days of the pioneers.

At the time he made the catch the lucky angler was a guest at "White Birch," the camp of J. E. Farbour, millionaire thread manufacturer of Patterson.

The giant trout was brought here and placed on exhibition. It is now being mounted and will be placed in the trophy room at the camp.

ROAD WILL BE BUILT THROUGH MUSSEL SHOALS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 8.—Directors of the Lee Highway association meeting here today voted to reconstruct the route between Chattanooga and Memphis but to continue the highway through the Mussel Shoals district.

Representatives of the Alabama Highway department assured the directors the Alabama part of the route would be constructed as soon as possible.

Henry Roberts, of Bristol, Tenn., was elected president of the association and it was voted to retain headquarters in Washington, D. C.

BETTER THAN SODA FOR INDIGESTION

New Cordial Called "Anti-Ferment," Originated By a Druggist and Recommended by Physicians. Neutralizes Acid Condition of Stomach, Prevents Fermentation and Brings Instant Relief.

Indigestion and its attendant ills such as dyspepsia, heart burn, sour stomach, griping pains, flatulency, diarrhoea, colic, cholera morbus, chronic constipation, gas, etc., and even sick, nervous headaches are now directly traceable to disorders in the digestive organs.

Food eaten before it is fully digested thus putting into solution toxic poisons that are absorbed into the system, irritating the intestines and setting up inflammation. To avoid this you simply have to prevent fermentation by using Anti-Ferment.

Anti-Ferment neutralizes the acid condition of the stomach, ceases and sweetens the bitter, sour and flatulent flow of gastric juices, giving quick and certain relief. Get a bottle of Anti-Ferment from your druggist with a guarantee of satisfactory results or money returned. It will improve your appetite, give you restful sleep and make you feel better than you ever felt in your life—adv.

CHATHAM NEWS NOTES

CHATHAM, July 8.—C. Letcher Craddock, a prominent citizen of Pittsylvania county near Whittles was laid to rest at his home on Friday afternoon. He had been sick for about two weeks and his attending physician decided on Tuesday to take him to Richmond and he breathed his last at St. Luke's hospital on Thursday morning. Mr. Craddock was born at the place he died about fifty-nine years ago. He was a well-to-do farmer and is survived by his wife and the following children: Mrs. Ben Riddle, Mrs. Leonard Motley, Miss Ella Craddock, V. E. Craddock, Irvin Craddock, J. L. Craddock, and Russell Craddock also one brother, Jno. W. Craddock and three sisters, Mrs. Henry Brumfield, Mrs. Joseph Towler and Mrs. W. H. Bennett. Interment was at his home and the last sad rites were conducted by the Rev. J. B. Easley of the Chatham Christian church. The pall bearers were W. B. Cooke, Martin Motley, Letcher Payne, Sam Jefferson, Miller Haden and C. W. Payne. Flower bearers, Hule Motley, L. Jefferson, John Forbes, Russell Kates, Jesse Salf and Anderson Blanks, Mr. H. H. Cooke, a lifelong friend of the deceased, made a few remarks at the grave.

The splendid rain of the earlier part of the week has made wonderful improvement in crops of all kinds, and the farmers have been busy laying in tobacco right much of which is large enough to top.

Plans are now in the making to erect a large drying plant at this place for the benefit of the Farmers' Co-operative Association. A stock company was on Friday night formed with Le Taul as president, G. W. Gammon, vice president, and Frank Marshall, secretary. Charter will be at once applied for. The building is to be erected on the Southern Railway siding and will have a capacity of 75,000 pounds daily.

Alpheus Marshall, for several days on the sick list, is out.

Mrs. T. J. Gray and children returned this week after a stay of several weeks with relatives in the far South.

Mrs. Louise Howell and Baby Howell, of Florence, S. C. are visiting at the home of Dr. W. T. Can- ada, father of Mrs. Howell. Mrs. James L. Woods and children of Roanoke, are guests of Mrs. E. V. Meen, mother of Mrs. Woods.

Winston Woman— Is Victim In Auto Smash

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 9.—Mrs. R. P. Scott, of this city, was brought to a local hospital last night in a critical condition after her husband had been almost completely killed in a wreck that resulted about eight miles from Winston-Salem on the Clemmons road when the car in which she was riding was struck by a speeding automobile driven by a Bloomer Bagleson, a young white man of this city, who, it is alleged, was transporting whiskey.

According to the statement of R. P. Scott, husband of the wounded woman, who was driving the car which was struck, he, his wife and child and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Stoney and child were returning to this city when about eight miles from here their car was struck by a speeding Ford car which appeared to be driven by a reckless driver.

The cars met in a head-on collision. The car in which Mrs. Scott was thrown head first into the shattered windshield. A telephone call was immediately sent into this city for an ambulance, but before it arrived the injured woman, who appeared to be in a dying condition, was rushed to the hospital in a passing car, and at midnight medical attendants reported that she would likely survive her injuries, providing complications do not set in.

Bagleson, who, it is reported, was found in an unconscious condition at the scene of the wreck, was placed under arrest by Sheriff Flynn and Deputy Sheriff Clodfelter, who arrived soon after the wreck occurred, and was placed in jail without the privilege of bond, until further reports are received of the injured woman's condition.

Sheriff Flynn also brought back 26 gallons of whiskey which was found about 100 yards from the scene of the wreck, where it is alleged companions of Bagleson had carried it after the cars smashed together.

Lightning Splits Virginia House In Two Parts

BENA, July 9.—Recent storms have done considerable damage in this neighborhood. Lightning partly destroyed the home of Mr. William Keys, also the home of William Buckner, colored. The latter dwelling was split in two parts.

Marconi Departs On His Radio Ship

NEW YORK, July 9.—After several hours delay caused by failure to get proper clearance papers for new fireman taken aboard his yacht, Eletta, Senator Marconi left his yacht, Eletta, for England by way of the Azores. He will probably be in London about July 25.

The inventor of the first system of wireless transmission took with him much American wireless material, to be used largely in his new device, this material was some of the new electron tubes, called radiotrons in this country, which have been developed at the General Electric Company by Dr. Irving Langmuir for use in both wireless telegraphy and telephony. The new tubes are of 20-250 watts. One-kilowatt tubes have been used by Marconi on his yacht and the four 11-watt tubes in some of his experiments on land. Senator Marconi also took a wireless telephone set and amplifier, to be used for the reception of broadcast programs.

While he was in this country, Senator Marconi gathered the opinions of American radio engineers as to how he could further his experiments with short wave telephony, and that will be the first scientific problem he will undertake when he arrives in Europe. Some of his men are now out of the vessel Pharos, conducting experiment on short wave telephony, and it is probable that Senator Marconi will join them. He has already talked about his short wave system.

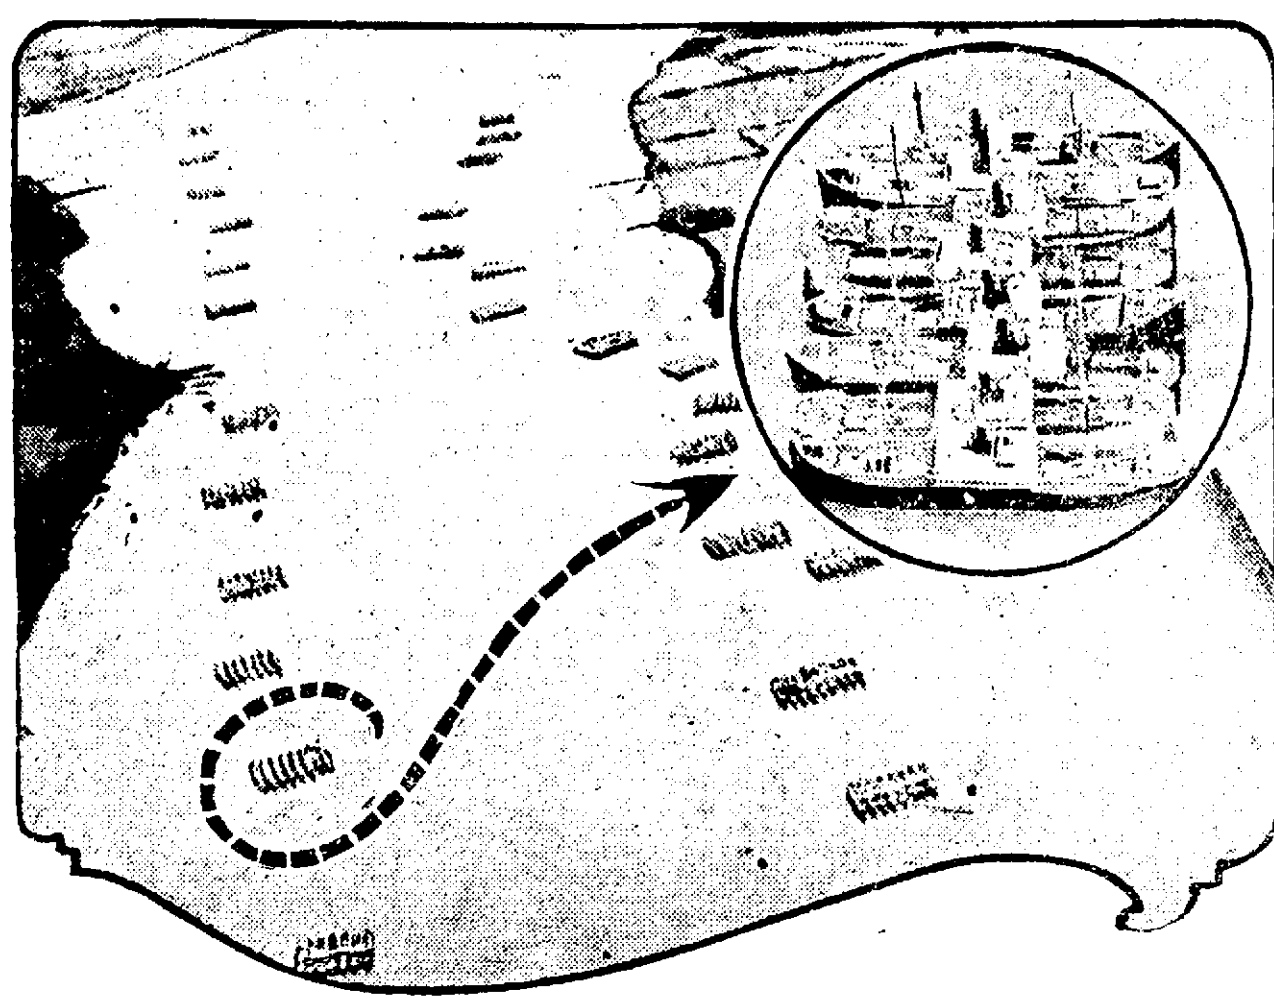

Although more observations on static will be made on the return voyage, there will be no delay for this work, as on the way over. When the Eletta reaches Europe some of the apparatus used for the study of the static problem will be taken off and installed in land stations.

Second Trial Makes Matters Much Worse

STAMFORD, July 9.—The second trial of Albert B. Rush, charged with complicity in butter thefts from the Waynesboro Creamery company is over. It resulted in a heavier sentence than that from which Rush appealed, the jury sentencing him to spend one year in jail and to pay a fine of $500.

The verdict in his first trial was six months in jail and a fine of $200. Mr. Rush has offered through his attorneys, Jos. A. Glasgow and Chas. Curry, a motion for another trial. The court has not acted on this motion. Circuit court is now taking a recess until next Wednesday, July 12.

1208 SHIPS ARE IDLE AND DECAYING

AIRPLANE VIEW OF HUNDREDS OF SHIPS ANCHORED IN THE JAMES RIVER, OFF CLAREMONT, VA., WITH A CLOSEUP OF ONE GROUP. THERE ARE FROM SIX TO 10 SHIPS IN EVERY GROUP.

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEWPORT NEWS, July 8.—The greatest concentration of shipping in the world's history can be found today in the lower James river, between Newport News and Clarendon, Va.

Of these two tons, 20 miles apart, 540 ocean-going steamships with a dead-weight tonnage of 2,870,000.

But the presence of this great fleet does not indicate any sudden revival of ocean commerce for this port. Rather, it symbolizes both the depressed condition of world commerce and the uncertain status of Uncle Sam as a master mariner in years to come.

For these vessels are not manned and outfitted for sea. Their bunkers are empty, their boilers are cold. Except for a few watchmen and guards and a few caretakers to minimize the decay that results from idleness, they are unmanned.

Tied up in groups of eight to 12 abreast, their anchors grip the shallow river bottom while they await either the revival of world shipping or a government subsidy.

Will Subsidy Free Them? What their future will be, no one knows. President Harding, the Chairman of the Shipping Board maintain only a subsidy can enable the more efficient of the vessels to operate at a profit in competition with shipping from other nations.

Latter recommends the scrapping or sale at junk prices of hundreds of them, including all the wooden fleet built at war prices as part of the American "bridge of ships."

The sale of the others at prices which would enable the purchasers to maintain them in operation under a subsidy is a further part of the administration's shipping policy.

But failure of Congress to act on the ship subsidy and refusal of private interests to buy government ships at any price for operation under the American flag has steadily added to the number of idle vessels until today more than half of all the 2,312 vessels built, or acquired by Uncle Sam for his "war fleet" are laid up.

Fate of War Fleet Uncle Sam's war-time merchant fleet totaled 2,312 vessels with a tonnage of 13,635,711. This included the hundreds of vessels under construction when the armistice was signed on which contracts were not cancelled and which were completed.

Of this number today 1,208 are laid up not in serviceable order. They have an aggregate tonnage of 7,175,375.

Of this great "laid-up" fleet, 540, or almost one-half, are in the two lower James river anchorages at Clarendon and Camp Eustis.

At Clarendon are 227 of the total laid-up wood and composite vessels. Their tonnage is 887,575. Off Camp Eustis are 313 steel freighters from the 3,500-ton boats built in Great Lakes yards and brought to salt water through the Welland canal and the St. Lawrence, to the big 12,500-ton boats of the Daniel Webster and Henry Clay type. The average of these laid-up steel ships is 6,500 tons—a size generally considered best for tramp freighting.

Other Concentration Points Although the biggest concentration of idle shipping board tonnage is here in the lower James, other groups of Shipping Board vessels are laid up as follows: Army base, Boston, 26; New London, Conn., 6; Hudson river, 146; State Island, 108; New York harbor, 9; Hog Island, 98; Curtis Day and vicinity of Baltimore, 38; Savannah, 16; Charleston, 7; Pensacola, 22.

expedition, and is confident of success. Friends of Mr. Cameron said he told them he expects to be back in Elizabeth within two or three months.

DEMOCRATS SPLIT AGAIN ON RATES IN TARIFF BILL

WASHINGTON, July 5.—There was another wide split today among the Democrats on the tariff, a number of them joining with the Republicans in rejecting the lower rate on rice written into the bill by the finance committee majority. The House rates were approved on motion of the committee, which receded from its amendments. The rates after trade, rough rice, one cent a pound, brown rice, 1-1-4 cent a pound, milled rice, 2 cents a pound, broken rice and rice meal, one half of one cent a pound.

While the rice paragraph was before the Senate throughout the day, the debate took a wide range. Senator La Follette renewed his attack on the bill, and particularly on the cotton schedule, speaking for three hours. He declared this was not the time to revise a tariff because of fluctuating conditions in the business world. Also he inveighed against the present system of tariff making, and which he said "rough grain" went before Congressional committees, asked for the rates they wanted and "as a rule were given exactly what they asked for."

FIVE UPON SEARCH OF TREASURE

NEW YORK, July 8.—An expedition secretly outfitted at Elizabeth, N. J., for the recovery of buried treasure with a traditional tale of $500,000 on its way from New York harbor to Halifax. It was learned yesterday. The party comprises two New York men, two from White Plains and one from Elizabeth. A Halifax agent will ship on another boat to journey to an obscure island off Nova Scotia, where they hope to accomplish an enterprise that has cost fortunes in many vain expeditions.

The Elizabeth member of the party is James R. Cameron, 59, of 535 Madison avenue, head of Cameron & Kaulfers Company, pattern makers, 35 Marshall street.

Have Lease on Treasure A casual observer peering at Recreation Pier, Elizabeth, on Tuesday, while a gang of men hurried to load iron tubes and machinery aboard a steamer, learned that Edward W. Bowens of Newark, formerly a man in Montana, is the directing head and the financial backer of the expedition. A Californian who possesses the secret of the treasure and who is said to hold a lease from the Canadian government on the island where the gold is said to be hidden is another partner in the enterprise.

At the pier a few minutes before his boat cast off, Cameron said he would not know for two months whether he had taken a pleasure or a profitable business journey to Nova Scotia.

Was South American Gold. The story of the buried treasure has been a legend that during a war between South American countries many years ago the government of one determined to save the national treasure from capture and put it aboard a ship. The vessel escaped the enemy and reached the coast of Canada, where the gold and gems were buried.

Another version of the story was that the crew of the treasure ship mutinied and stole the treasure and then buried it. An acquaintance of Mr. Bowens said that he has been planning many years for this attempt and has put $20,000 for more into this

Efforts To Settle Coal Strike Are Still Under Way

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—Alignments in the coal strike situation appeared substantially unchanged tonight upon the return to Washington of President Harding who convened representatives of the operators and miners here on Monday in the hope that a settlement might be reached. The return of the president gave an opportunity for cabinet officers who have participated in pending settlement efforts to make reports.

While anthracite operators and union officials from the anthracite fields were leaving the capital for the week-end, Alfred M. Olick, chairman of the general conference and leader of the bituminous operators, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, returned to make preparations for the Monday meeting, in which both branches of the industry, and employers and union spokesmen, are again likely to engage the president's personal attention.

Secretaries Hoover and Davis, who have sat in the bituminous conference, held a lengthy discussion of the matter today but in government quarters silence was maintained as to prospective action. An impression prevailed that the bituminous section of the conference might come at least temporarily to a suspension Monday, with its original disagreement, in which the union seeks national or semi-national wage negotiation, and the operators tender district regulation, uncompromisingly defined. The field of operations is as "water suspension" rather than a strike persists through demands of operators for lowered wage scales, the degree to be fixed by arbitration and union unwillingness to renege from levels of 1920 wage contracts.

Stubborn Fire In Ship Finally Was Drowned Out

HOBOKEN, N. J., July 8.—A stubborn, smoky fire bored through the hull of the Holland America liner New Amsterdam for seven hours today and when it was all over, 600 passengers who were to have sailed at noon were forced to wait until Tuesday, when the fire was finally extinguished. The fire started in the stern of the ship, which was bound for New York, and when it was all over, 600 passengers who were to have sailed at noon were forced to wait until Tuesday, when the fire was finally extinguished.

During the long battle fought by New York, Hoboken and ship firemen, between 15 and 25 men had to have medical attention. Pulmonaries were used on four of them, and one, a Hoboken fireman, went to the hospital in a serious condition. Two officers of the ship were overcome, and a diver's assistant was badly cut by broken iron struts.

Two hours before the fire was put out, all the passengers of the ship were ordered ashore. Those in the first class went home or to hotels, but those in the second and third class crowded to the end of the pier, where benches, boxes and hastily constructed tables were put up for them. Stewards from the liner came ashore with soup, sandwiches and coffee.

The fire started at 11 a. m. in a hold just below the main deck, and it was long before any passengers were aboard.

At first Captain Peter Van Den Broek tried to fight in chase with his crew. For two hours they battled, using steam mostly, so as not to get water into the hold and so delay sailing. At 10 o'clock First Officer Hendrik

Van Erp was overcome by smoke. An ambulance was called from St. Mary's hospital in Hoboken and the officer was revived with a pulmonary. Then the captain sent in a telephone alarm to the Hoboken department, but only street apparatus responded.

Chief Keller, of the local force, however, said that the fire would force its way from the single hold into the general cargo, 7,000 tons of grain, and lines could be swung aboard from the big ship's stern. He sent in a call and two fire boats and the wrecking tug Chapman Brothers answered. The wrecking tug at once rigged up a diver's stand and James A. Haggerty, a diver, went down into the water filled hold. With a telephone connected at the dock, where Chief Murray of the New York marine division was in charge, Haggerty directed the fire fighters.

For three hours, tons of water from the two fire boats, from the ship's pumps and from six engines on the pier were shot into the burning hold.

That alone, according to the chief, saved the cargo of grain. Had it been touched by the blaze, the New Amsterdam would have been towed into midstream and it is possible, even, that the entire ship would have been lost.

It was damage amounting to between $50,000 and $100,000 was done, according to estimates of firemen and ship's officers. Most of it was covered by insurance.
